

CHRONIC DISEASE IN THE OLDER PERSON

| | |
|---------------------|--|
| 9:00 – 9:30 | Registration and coffee/tea |
| 9:30-10.05 | Rheumatology diseases in older people Dr Julie Mchale Nottingham University Hospitals NHS Trust |
| 10:05-10:40 | Respiratory diseases in older people Dr Zara Pogson Lincoln County Hospital |
| 10:40 Coffee | |
| 11:05-11.40 | Renal diseases in older people Dr Matt Hall Nottingham University Hospitals NHS Trust |
| 11.40-12.30 | The Management of Hypertension in Older People Dr Stephen Makin Institute of Cardiovascular & Medical Science, University of Glasgow |
| 12:30 Lunch | |
| 13:30-14:05 | Cardiology conditions in older people Dr Ian Loke University Hospitals of Leicester NHS Trust |
| 14:05-14:40 | Endocrinology conditions in older people Dr Miles Levy University Hospitals of Leicester NHS Trust |
| 14:40 Coffee | |
| | Specialty trainee / Allied health professional presentation |
| 15:05-15:30 | Experience of a Physician Associate embedded within Geriatric Medicine Sophie Jeffs, Physician Associate NUH NHS Trust |
| 15:30-16:20 | Integrated community frailty care project Rachael Slater, StR East Midlands (South) Lahi Satharasinghe, StR East Midlands (South) |
| 16:20-16:30 | Prize giving and end of meeting |

Venue: Park Plaza, 41 Maid Marian Way, Nottingham NG1 6GD

Nearest public car park: St James Street NCP car park using Sat Nav postcode NG1 6EY

The British Geriatrics Society acknowledges with grateful thanks, the support given through sponsorship of a stand space from: Ashfield Healthcare, Internis Pharma, Profile Pharma and Vifor Pharma

@GeriSoc #BGS Conf

Speakers

Dr Julie Mchale

Dr Mchale graduated from Manchester University and completed her specialty training and research in London. She was appointed as a consultant in Nottingham since 2000, covering rheumatology, acute and general medicine. She is currently Head of Service for rheumatology, clinical immunology and allergy at Nottingham University Hospitals NHS Trust .

Dr Zara Pogson

Dr Pogson is a consultant respiratory physician at Lincoln County Hospital. Her clinical interests are in asthma and COPD. She is also a member of the British Thoracic Society's specialty workforce committee.

Dr Matt Hall

Dr Hall attended medical school in Cambridge and completed his specialist training in Leicester. He is currently a consultant physician in renal medicine at Nottingham University Hospitals NHS Trust. He has also a special interest in obstetric nephrology.

Dr Stephen M akin

Dr Makin is a clinical lecturer in geriatric medicine and his principle research interests are in stroke and small vessel disease.

Dr Ian Loke

Dr Loke is a consultant cardiologist based at University Hospitals of Leicester. He is a member of the Leicester Cardiovascular Biomedical Research Unit.

Dr Miles Levy

Dr Levy was appointed consultant endocrinologist at University Hospitals of Leicester in 2005 and is Honorary Associate Professor at Leicester University. His research interest includes the genetics of endocrine tumours, functional imaging in endocrine tumours, sodium disorders and the association of pituitary tumours and headache. He co -writes the endocrinology chapter for Kumar & Clarke and Endocrinology at a Glance, and is TPD and undergraduate education Lead for Endocrinology at Leicester Medical School. His most serious academic pursuits are playing music and Arsenal Football Club.

Ms Sophie Jeffs

Ms Jeffs was appointed the first Physician Associate with the Department for Healthcare of Older People, Nottingham University Hospitals NHS Trust. Her clinical role is embedded within the front-door acute geriatric service at Queens Medical Centre.

Dr Rachael Slater

Dr Slater is a Specialty Trainee in Geriatric Medicine and General Internal Medicine at the University Hospitals of Leicester NHS Trust.

Dr Lahi Satharasinghe

Dr Satharasinghe is a Specialty Trainee in Geriatric Medicine at the University Hospitals of Leicester NHS Trust. She also recently completed an Innovative Training Fellowship last year, and undertook extensive quality improvement work in Frailty, both in acute settings and in primary care; this work has been showcased internationally. During the year, she was also actively involved with the University of Leicester, delivering teaching to undergraduate students and has a keen interest in leadership and management.

